18. treatment. New asbestos roof replaced slate roof in early 1982. Colonial style porch probably added.

Outbuildings include a square stone smokehouse and combination barn-garage. The smokehouse, situated only 15' from the east elevation of the house, has a segmental arch door lintel and metal hip roof with cupola. Immediately west of the house is a frame barn with raised stone foundation. Reputed to be between 100-125 years old, the barn has been considerably altered. Garage doors and aluminum siding comprise the most obvious changes.

19. first husband, Mr. Gwesink had purchased the farm c. 1890 and lived in a temporary frame house while the brick house was being built. William Tiemeyer, who quarried and hauled the stone for the house, married Mrs. Gwesink after her husband was killed in a farming accident. Joe Ritter (see CP-92) stayed with the Tiemeyers as he cut and laid the foundation. Pat O'Brien was the carpenter and Isaac Ellison of Melbourne fired and laid the brick. Ellison is listed as a "brick mason" in the 1880 census. Original slate roof put on by Slate Rust of Monmouth Street in Newport. Stair newels and balusters were turned by Nealy Willison of Brent. The present owner, George Tiemeyer (William's son), was an artist and illustrator by occupation. From 1915-1917 he trained at the Cincinnati Art Academy and subsequently entered his first job as an illustrator for U.S. Lithography in Cincinnati. Mr. Tiemeyer celebrated his 84th birthday in 1982.

20. was demolished by William Tiemeyer many years ago. This house is one of four along River Road built by Isaac Ellison.
