18. Description		37. Revision Dates
Situated on the outskirts of Bedford is a significant Federal style dwelling. The brick building consists of a one-and-one-half story recessed central block with one-story twin projecting pavilions and a one-story brick ell on the central block. A one-story brick addition on the rear of the central block and connecting with the ell completes the structure. Flemish bond (Continue on Back)		38. Staff Review

18. brickwork enhances the facade, while the remainder is done in common bond with a row of headers every seven or nine rows. Fenestration consists of seven bays with a central entrance with a transom now enclosed. A one-story, three-bay pedimented portico embellished with shingling and pierced by a single 2/2 pane window, which replaced the original fanlight window, accentuates the facade. Six Doric Order columns support the portico. Facade windows are 9/6 pane with jackarches and wooden sills. A corbeled cornice accents the facade and rear of the central block, while each wing has a boxed cornice. The central block has interior gable-end chimneys with two 2/2 pane gable windows at each end, and the twin projecting pavilions and the ell also have interior gable-end chimneys. Square windows of 6/6 pane with wooden sills pierce the ell. Each side of the central block is punctured by two bays consisting of a door with a transom now enclosed and a 9/9 pane window with wooden sills and enhanced by one-story, two-bay open porches.

A corbeled cornice accents the ell. Each wing is accentuated by a brick pilaster. A limestone foundation supports the building. A one-story frame coal shed and a one and one-half story frame barn with log joists are dependencies of the dwelling.
