Contributing: 3 buildings

45. Description and House Plan:

The simply formed house consists of a small-scaled two-room block with a central passage and, in the original ell, a single room. The window and door surrounds are original, as are the 1/1 double-hung sash windows. The cornice returns on the three gable-ends, and the brackets are grouped in pairs. The interior features woodwork with bull's eye corner blocks and a metal mantel that is marbled, including inlay-style panels painted black and gold. The ceilings have been dropped, and the walls are paneled.

The 1920s-1930s addition in the angle of the ell has a more recent concrete block foundation. The front porch, too, is a recent addition--there does not seem to have been a porch originally.

Two small outbuildings downhill from the end of the ell are a tool shed and a privy, both of wood frame construction, both clad in tongue-in-groove, vertical-board siding, and both roughly contemporary with the house. The privy is gabled, while the tool shed, built in two stages, is shed-roofed. Both are roofed with standing-seam metal. The two outbuildings contribute to the significance of the house because they illustrate the domestic need for outbuildings in the period.
