Point A is about 300' east of the entry lane; point B is about 800' south of Aurora Ferry Road; point C is on the east bank of the Ohio River about 1/4 mile west of point B; point D is on the south side of Aurora Ferry Road on the east bank of the Ohio River; boundary A-D is the south side of Aurora Ferry Road; and boundary C-D is the east bank of the Ohio River.

The boundary of the nominated property is delineated by the polygon whose vertices are marked by the following UTM reference points: A 16 682810 4324855

B 16 682825 4324625
C 16 682460 4324570
D 16 682400 4324790

Contributing buildings: 8

45. Description and House Plan:

The two-story house features a five-bay front with an upper door in the center. Both doors in the facade are lighted with narrow sidelights; the first floor entry has transom lights as well, forming with the sidelights a strongly vertical unit. The upper windows have 2/2 panes, and the taller first floor windows are 6/6. The full-length front porch, which is apparently original, is ornamented with delicate jigsaw brackets. At the eaves, the brackets are paired, placed to mark the bay divisions of the facade. The two-story ell, contemporary with and slightly lower than the main block, is two rooms deep, and there is an original wooden porch, simple in design, in the angle of the ell; this porch may have been altered to its present arrangement.

The house, set on a low rise above the floodplain of the Ohio River, faces the river to the west. The outbuildings, all wood frame, gabled, weather-boarded, and resting on stone foundations, include a medium-sized livestock barn and six small sheds and outbuildings serving a variety of functions, all in fair-poor condition, and all contemporary with the house, thus contributing to the historical character.

but not the architectural character.
